Why He Deserts Bryanism.

It is hard to impress upon the Democrats that the issue they seek to make paramount in the present campaign is not an issue at all, but is wholly an imaginary thing, and an impossibility in this country. Those Democrats who question this position taken by the Republican party are respectfully referred to the reasons given by the Hon. Jacob Stern, of Buffalo, who was for twelve years surrogate of Erie county, who has been a Democrat all his life and who was one of the staunchest supporters that Bryan had in western New York four years ago, but who has turned away from Bryan and will support Mc-Kinley.

In a recent interview in the Buffalo Express, Judge Stern discusses his action and the causes for his change in sentiment. He says:

"The general course of the present administration in the Spanish-American war and since its close meets with favor in my heart and conscience. Until these difficult matters are settled the remarks of the great Lincoln about 'swapping horses in the stream' are very applicable. With the end of the rebellion to our lawful authority in the Philippines comes the question of what is best for all concerned, and then we ought to do the right thing in a manly, liberty-loving, American fashion. The making of this subject a football in the political arena is, in my humble opinion, contemptible and outrageous.

The same holds good of Cuba and Porto Rico. In the natural course of events these matters will take shape and as early as possible. I hope to see the states of Cuba, Porto Rico and Philippines represented in our Congress, to the end that these people may enjoy the fruits of this grand republic.

Those are my sentiments, and I don't complain about being called an expansionist or an imperialist or even a Mc-Kinley Democrat, for in '96 I became accustomed to being called an anarchist and country destroyer and other like epithets. I believed then I did my duty by my party, and believing that I am right now, I feel I ought to not independently. And as Mr. Bryan wants everybody to vote as his heart and conscience dictate, I will take advantage of this good advice.

The expansion business comes too late. We expanded long ago and there is no more expansion in sight. Mr.
Bryan and the Democratic senators aided and assisted in our expansion.
They could have prevented the taking of the Philippines and the payment of $20,000,000 for them. They did not. Had they fought then as they talk now, the chances are that we would not have expanded across the sea. I imagine they were then afraid of the cars. There was too much patriotism in the air to play politics. Since then these same gentlemen, not all of them, but most of them, have done all they could to keep the Filipino rebellion alive by their constant fire on the administration, and I believe with many others that their conduct has caused the death of many of our soldiers and sailors. Now they talk of the terrible sacrifice of lives in the Philippines. It is enough to disgust the hardest kind of a Democrat. Butter, far better, another four years of McKinley than putting such men into the saddle.

The difference between Mr. McKinley and Mr. Bryan is that the former is conservative and the latter radical. The former gave no indication of dominating the Republican convention, but Mr. Bryan, with a boldness unheard of, absolutely controlled the Democrats.
When a man ascends so high and becomes so powerful and assumes the ditatorship of a great party, then it behooves the people to go slow and think several times before placing in his hand the greatest of all powers—the presidency of the United States."

What the South Favors.

Eliminate the place hunters and the politicians from the south and it would not be long before the people would be supporting the economic and industrial policies of the Republican party. Many of the influential journals in the south have refused to advocate the election of Bryan while a few have the temerity to support McKinley outright. The industrial and commercial interests of the south demand encouragement that the Kansas City platform denies them, and in this predicament the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore suggests the following as a platform for the adoption of those who favor a progressive south:

"Whereas, In the course of American politics, the south has reached the point where foolishness will mean loss and decay, while common sense will mean prosperity and progress; therefore, be it Resolved, That the progressive south is opposed to dead issues; that it is not afraid of ghosts, and that it is not looking backward.

Resolved, That the south is opposed to men and measures appealing to ignorance, passion and prejudice, that tend to array class against class, and that can present no more practical reason for their support than the desire and purpose of individuals to retain or gain public office.

Resolved, That the south favors the policies that will encourage and protect investments within its borders, will raise more chimney-stacks of mills and factories, will strengthen and extend railroad systems, will open more mountains, will widen the markets for agricultural and manufactured products and will increase the means and opportunities for placing those products in the markets."

We see nothing in these principles that are in conflict with those enunciated by the Republican national convention at Philadelphia. If the Republican party is not opposed to the dead issues and the ghosts in Colonel Bryan's platform, it is opposed to nothing; and if it does not foster, protect and encourage those things enumerated above, then it does not foster and protect anything. The Record's platform is a bright condensation of the vital principles of Republicanism.

United States in China.

The President's response to the appeal of the emperor of China for mediation is but carrying out the policy outlined by Secretary Hay. The mediation of the United States, however, depends upon certain contingencies. The imperial government is required to show that it has no sympathy with the boxer uprising, and that it is doing its best to suppress the rebellion. Furthermore, the safety of our minister at Peking must be guaranteed, and free communication with him opened up before mediation is seriously considered.

The independent position taken by the United States may not please the Great Powers, in fact it has already incurred the displeasure of the inspired German press. But Germany has a hot-headed ruler, who is naturally incensed at the brutal murder of his diplomatic representative at the court of Peking. Germany is throwing her troops into China for reprisal, while the United States is there to rescue her legation and aid the other powers in this object. After that is accomplished our "entangling alliances" will cease, however much the Democratic party insists that we are there for gain and aggrandizement. The American policy is direct and to the point. The motives of the powers are susceptible of other constructions.

Capitalizing Misfortune.

The attempt of Messrs. Waterhouse and Healy, Democratic members of council, to capitalize the misfortunes of the water works department of the city government for the benefit of the city democracy, which was a feature of the joint-session of the two branches of the city legislature last night, will not meet with the approbation of either Republicans or Democrats in general. The unfortunate mishaps at the pumping station were events that could not be foreseen by human minds nor mended in advance by human hands. Do Messrs.
Waterhouse and Healy believe that a Democratic board would have been favored with a providential dispensation, thus preventing what an ordinary mundane and uninspired Republican board did not foresee and consequently was not forewarned against? No, no, gentlemen, your are descending to a demagogic level unworthy of you.

Mr. Hu Maxwell and Professor R. E.
Fast have in preparation a work to be called "History and Civil Government of West Virginia." It is designed as a text book for schools and colleges, and is written in a style to interest the general reader. The volume will be ready for distribution in the fall.

Great Britain still declines to believe the Chinese reports of the safety of the Peking legations.

So would-be governor Holt has senatorial aspirations which have caused a split with McGraw. Holt evidently accepted for governor, but in case the legislature is Democratic he might be more acceptable to his party than the little boys for United States senator.

Germany is kicking on the attitude of the United States in China. This government is in China to succor her imperialist minister and protect the interests of this country. Emperor William is in it for revenge and what he can get out of the partition of the empire.

We believe that nothing would please the West Virginia soldier boys better than to take a fall out of the boxers, but it is not likely, at this writing, that the government will be called on to accept Governor Atkinson's tender of the troops.

The Parkersburg State Journal has entered upon its thirty-fifth volume and its eighteenth year, under the most flattering prospects for the future, besides leaving an honorable record behind it.

The President has agreed to mediate between China and the powers upon certain conditions imposed upon the imperial government.

It is a great pity that the men who know their business don't know as much as their critics.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

A very little woman is often at the bottom of a very big fuss.

The veracity of the woman who tells her correct age is above par.

An old bachelor says that many women marry because of their curiosity.

Ignorance of the law excuses no one —except the policeman with a "pull."

No wonder a man is dissatisfied with his lot when he is gradually losing ground.

The lawyer's version: "Let me act as attorney for a nation, and I care not who writes its songs."

Man prides himself on his superior intelligence, but who ever heard of a woman buying a gold brick?

If properly classified, fully 90 per cent of the novels of the day would come under the head of dry goods.

People may sympathize with the man who acts the fool occasionally, but not with the one who insists on giving a continuous performance. — Chicago Daily News.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

No man who has good common sense need ever expect to be loved.

If marriages really were made in heaven match-making mothers would know no joy.

There is no possibility of a woman being happy unless she can worry because her husband's underwear is either too heavy or too light.

A good many people in this world think they are going on loving each other when they are only going on loving the love they once had. — New York Press.

The "New" Man.

The shirtwaist man is coming—he is strutling into view.

His smile of satisfaction shows he's made his mind up, too.

He wears a look that marks the soul by his coolest comfort blest.

He doesn't care what people think—he's dressed his coat and vest.

And now he is devising diplomatic means and ways

Of introducing pantaloons to wear on rainy days.

The shirt waist man is here to stay; full he'll be playing at the game.

That fashion's dictates have shut off a lot of pleasant breeze.

And if he takes a notion that he wants made that way.

He'll have his shirt designed and cut in bold decolette.

And trousers built for rainy days he'll order next—that's what.

And wear them all the summer through, if there is rain or not.

The shirtwaist man—hurrah for him! Now he'll set the pace.

And give some cooler clothing to one-half the human race.

Let's have the shirtwaists with short sleeves and lace insertion, so

They'll catch the faintest sort of breeze that e'er was known to blow.

And don't forget, Oh, tailorman, you must abbreviate

The trousers, so that all the man may be in coolest state.

The shirtwaist man! Make way for him.
He's coming at full speed.

He marks a suffrage movement that the men-folks sadly need.

Hereafter we'll not be afraid of women's scoffs and sneers

If we forsake the collar that so hotly wars our ears.

And, furthermore, in stern demand, let us our voices raise

And call for trousers we can wear in peace on rainy days.

CURIOUS CUCKOOS.

The cuckoo is generally known only as a bird with a very monotonous note: a continuous cry of "cuckoo, cuckoo" over and over again. Among naturalists, however, the cuckoo is known as a bird that never builds a nest for itself, but takes advantage of one already built by some more industrious bird.

There is a good deal of the cuckoo about these advertisers who, instead of making a success of their own, seek to profit by the success which some one else has made with much effort and labor. It is so with those imitations of Dr. Pierce's methods, by which free medical advice is offered, although those who make the offer are without qualified medical ability or experience. And the cry raised in some cases of "woman, woman, woman write to woman" makes the resemblance to the cuckoo even stronger.

There is as far as known no qualified woman physician connected with any proprietary medicine establishment, and none therefore competent to give medical advice. It is certain that there is no one, man or woman, who can offer free medical advice backed by such knowledge and experience as is possessed by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y. For over thirty years Dr. Pierce has made a specialty of the treatment of diseases peculiar to women. In that time he has treated over half-a-million women, ninety-eight per cent. of whom have been perfectly cured. Every sick woman is invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter absolutely without charge or cost. Every letter is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers are mailed securely sealed in perfectly plain envelopes bearing no printing whatever upon them.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes Weak
Women Strong and Sick
Women Well.

NEWSPAPER WAIFS.

A country paper has this personal item: "Those who know old Mr. Wilson of this place personally, will regret to hear that he was assaulted in a brutal manner last week, but was not killed." —Tit-Bits.

A Cynicism Aggravated.—"Language," quoted Willie Whistlington, "was given for the concealment of thought." "Indeed," rejoined Miss Cayenne, languidly. "Permit me to congratulate you on being so perfect a master of English." —Washington Star.

Lighter.—McPhatters—I see you are still buying the anti-fat medicine. Does it seem to have any effect? Hefty—Yes, indeed! I notice a decrease in weight every time we get on the scales.

McPhatters—We? What do you mean by 'we'? Hefty—Myself and my purse.
—Harper's Bazar.

A Ridiculous Fad.—Mrs. Jackson—Dat hifalutin' Mrs. Washtubb am puttin' on lots of airs, lately; trying to act jes' like white folks! Mrs. Johnson—U'm! Wot am her latest fad?

Mrs. Jackson—Why, de most ridiculous thing yo' ever heerd ob! She am sun' her husband's non-support! —Puck.

Mr. Hauskeep—My wife broke a fairly-lamp, two vases, and a cut-glass flower-stand in our parlor last evening, but she accomplished her purpose. Mr.
Aseum—For goodness' sake, what was her purpose? Mr. Hauskeep—To capture a clothes moth she saw flying around. —Philadelphia Press.

As Advertised.—"Don't you hire any servants at all to keep this hotel clean?
My room is in an awful dirty condition!" complained the victim of the summer hotel "ad." "That is the fault of the wind!" declared the proprietor, blantly. "You know we advertise: 'Swept by ocean breezes!'" —Brooklyn Life.

"I," said the gentleman who had fairly prospered, "am humbly proud of the fact that I took 'Get thee behind me, Satan,' as my motto when I began business life." "There is nothing," said the second gentleman, who had measured business wits with the first gentleman, "the having good backing." —Indianapolis Press.

Hotel-keeper (who has let his "Assembly-room" for a concert).—"Well, sir; I hope you found the arrangements in the 'all satisfactory last night? Mr.
Bawlington—Oh, yes; everything was all right. There was only one thing to object to. I found the acoustics of the building not quite — Hotel-keeper —No, sir; excuse me. What you smelt was the stables next door! —Punch.
